The Quality Center is home to the Offices of Admission, Financial Aid, Career Services and Employer Development, Bursar, and Registrar. Spiders start and end their journey here with resources to help them along the way.

Upon exiting the front entrance, turn left on UR Drive and cross over Westhampton Way. On your left will be the main brick walkway leading up the hill between Cannon Memorial Chapel and Gottwald for the Sciences.

The University Forum is a central gathering place for students, faculty, and staff. It is open to all students.

Tyler Haynes Commons

Tyler Haynes Commons is the heart of campus. Here you will find the Career Services Advising Suite, the Bonner Center for Civic Engagement, the Center for Student Involvement, the Office of Scholars and Fellowships, Spider Shop, and more, all nestled in this building that spans the lake. Once you exit the other end of the Commons, proceed straight up the hill on the main path towards Weinstein Hall.

The Robins School of Business is a highly ranked business program with a foundation in liberal arts, stands on the small hill to your right. It is home to our Accounting, Business Administration, and Economics majors along with a variety of concentration areas such as Finance, Marketing, and International Business. The Business School also houses the Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship that offers an interdisciplinary academic program, and other events and activities to enhance experiential learning, and is open to all students.

The School of Law was founded in 1830, offers a JD, and combined J.D./MBA programs and enjoys the same low student-to-faculty ratio as all other schools of the University. Turn left on the pathway between the School of Law and Jepson Hall. Bear right on Founders Walk, entering the courtyard of the Carole Weinstein International Center.

The International Center is home to several academic disciplines such as Global Studies and multiple languages, study abroad, the Office of International Education, faculty and classroom space, and Passport Cafe. Pass through the courtyard and cross the street, heading straight for Robins Stadium.

Robins Stadium

Robins Stadium seats 8,700 and is a multipurpose venue serving the University’s football, basketball, and women’s lacrosse, and women’s track & field programs. The University boasts 17 Division I varsity sports teams, 32 club sports teams, and numerous intramural teams.

To the left of the Robins Stadium is the Well-Being Center and Weinstein Center for Recreation.

The Well-Being Center is the newest building on campus that conveniently houses all areas of student wellness under one roof. The Well-Being Center is home to the Student Health Center, Counseling and Psychological Services as well as Health Promotions.

Attached to the Well-Being Center is the Weinstein Center for Recreation which features two pools and fitness centers and free weights, several multipurpose rooms for free exercise classes, squash and racquetball courts, a swimming pool, a three-court gymnasium, and sauna facilities.

Follow the brick path from the Well-Being Center towards Richmond Way. Turn right near Robins Hall and continue down the path until Whitehurst Hall is on your left.

The Student Center for Equity and Inclusion is open to all students. It serves as a resource for our Multicultural, First Generation, Limited Income, and LGBTQIA+ students; but all UR members are encouraged to participate in SCEI programs that center cross-cultural dialogue and learning.

Follow the path from Whitehurst until you reach a circular brick opening where you will see multiple residence halls and benches.

Wood Circle

Wood Circle is a central location to many of our residence halls such as Wood Hall. Residence Hall No. 2 and Residence Hall No. 3. Around 90 percent of undergraduates live on campus all year.

Launder facilities are free to students. Access to residence halls is limited to Richmond students and only to residents of that building after 2 a.m. Follow the brick path towards Richmond Way on your left heading towards Westhampton Lake. On your left will be Boatright Memorial Library.

Boatright Memorial Library

Students take advantage of a number of resources in Boatright Memorial Library, including the Media Resource, Technology Learning, and Academic Skills Center. They also frequent the popular Starbucks cafe for a bite to eat and baked goods and relax on the spacious lawn. The main facility of Boatright is open 24/7, and the main entrance is on the left.

Continue to follow the path along the rightside. When you approach Tyler Hayes Commons, you can continue on the outdoor path by the lake and climb the stairs on your left to enter the University Forum. On the right side of the Forum, you will continue straight on Wilton Way, stopping at the Heilman Center on your right.

The Heilman Center is the central dining hall offering all-you-care-to-eat dining. The Heilman Dining Center is open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. during the academic year. It is also home to the campus post office and a convenience store.

Continue up the hill on Wilton Way. Once you cross Westhampton Way, turn left in front of Booker Hall of Music and continue straight to the front entrance of the Modlin Center for the Arts.

The Modlin Center for the Arts and Booker Hall of Music draw international performing groups and ensembles to campus, most of whom are either free or discounted to students. Across the green are North Court and South Court, which houses classrooms, academic departments, and residence hall rooms.

From the Modlin Center for the Arts walk through the archway and down the hill on Rolfe Road. Turn right on Westhampton Way. Lora Robins Court will be on your right.

Lora Robins Court

Lora Robins Court is one of the residence halls that house first-year students. Lora Robins Court currently houses many of our Richmond Endowment students which is one of our living-learning communities. Students live in the same residence hall and participate together in a class, group travel, and co-curricular activities with a faculty mentor.

As you exit Lora Robins Court, turn right on Westhampton Way and the Quality Center will be on your right. You have completed the tour!
